Eastern Surplus was incorporated in Pennsylvania in 1999 by David Newman - Sole Owner and President. The business was started as a “hobby” and was built from scratch. We now have 15 full time mechanics and technicians working in our 30,000 sq. ft. truck refurbishing and parts warehouse facility in Philadelphia, PA.

We have been providing components and tactical systems for various end users including, but not limited to, foreign military governments, foreign contractors, domestic U.S. oil and gas industry, timber industry and heavy construction contractors. Particular focus has been on design & building of custom vehicles for police departments and emergency management agencies for purposes of responding to disaster situations.

We are also active in the commercial/industrial end-user market and have a strong customer base with reliable references, specifically in the oil and gas industry and the logging industry. One of our most notable programs in the foreign military field is a full refurbishment program of 800 Series 5 Ton Military Trucks to a high standard usable condition. The trucks were built and successfully delivered for the Moroccan Military. A similar project was just completed during which we reconditioned 25 each M35A2 cargo trucks for us by the Philippine Military.

QUALITY ASSURANCE

At Eastern Surplus we recognize the responsibility we have to deliver the best possible quality military vehicles, parts and service.

We also appreciate the investment our customers are making in their equipment and in Eastern Surplus. We take this very seriously and strive to ensure a high level of Quality Assurance in every project with which we are involved.

Quality Assurance Processes are embedded in our manufacturing and reconditioning stages. The QA process includes in-process activities and final inspections before deliverables are handed over to the client.

For every truck we build, recondition or customize, a detailed, itemized work list is created and kept with each individual vehicle. As each item is completed, the trained technician/mechanic initials it on the work list and notes the date of completion. Our Shop Foreman will review these items as they are completed.

As he verifies the work was done correctly, he signs and dates the item.

When the entire work list is complete, and the truck is ready for delivery, the General Manager and the Shop Foreman will inspect every item on the work list again. Upon successful completion of this final pre-delivery inspection, the General Manager will sign and date verification of each item as having been successfully completed to our highest standards.

No less than 3 sets of eyes have looked at and verified each required task has been completed, and completed correctly.

TECHNICAL

Eastern Surplus has current procedures in place to achieve the highest end result. Further, we will designate as many key personnel as required to effectively meet or exceed the customer's expectations.

We have considerable experience in building and reconditioning vehicles to a very high standard- as required by our most demanding customers

Relying on our 14 years in this industry, we have developed long standing relationships with suppliers, private sub-contractors to the US military and with active military units. We are prepared to leverage our considerable good will and impeccable reputation to employ select individuals from each of these sectors to bring their specific individual technical know-how to our effort.

The combination of these individuals and their talents, will immediately prepare us for any exciting and challenging task.

We have an existing relationship with the appropriate US governmental agencies allowing us to apply for and get timely export approvals for export shipments outside of the continental US.

We can coordinate shipment from our facility to any port for US customs clearance with our carrier- whose driver's posses the necessary authorizations for access to US ports.
